

ACADEMIC UNIVERSITIES IN POLAND

Universities in Poland offer a wide range of opportunities for foreign students. Most of them at this moment offer classes in English, so studying there is relatively easy for Rwandan citizens.

The Polish education system has several types of schools available, and a foreign student should pay big attention to focus only on academic universities that offer a high level of teaching and whose diplomas are recognized around the world.

The best universities in Poland can be found in the annual independent ranking of the "Perspektywy" magazine. The ranking is divided into academic and private universities, and also divides them into individual categories.

The Perspektywy Ranking includes the vision of an ideal university - a model that the Chapter adjusts to the changing reality every year. World-class research and active participation in global scientific networking, excellent staff, high level of didactics and internationalization, cooperation with business, care for the implementation of the university's social mission, ensuring good employment prospects for graduates - this is what students and graduates expect from the university, as well as its partners and socio-economic environment.

With the improvement of the methodology and the transition to external data sources, another function of the Ranking strengthened, which can be described as "monitoring". Observing the changes in the position of individual universities, it was possible to determine which of them adopted the right development strategy (because it is gaining in the ranking) and which is stagnant, which in practice means going backwards. Because in order to stay at the forefront, you have to run faster than your competitors. In this sense, the ranking is an element of building a culture of quality in Polish higher education.

Perspectives University Ranking (Poland) was the first national ranking to receive the "IREG Approved" quality certificate, awarded by the international organization IREG Observatory on Academic Ranking and Excellence, founded by a group of authors and analysts of university rankings from whole world.

The key issue in the professional preparation of the ranking is to determine its rules in advance, collect data correctly, prepare them diligently and clearly present the results and Perspektywy Ranking meets all these requirements.
